

Graduate Student Position in Environmental Molecular Microbiology

Our group is actively seeking Ph.D. graduate students with interests in environmental microbiology and the application of molecular biological tools to water pollution and wastewater treatment. Applicants need to meet the admission requirement of Environmental Engineering with background training in biological science and chemistry or other related fields. Please contact professor Sunny Jiang sjiang@uci.edu for consideration.